

Dawn (Paperback)

By Earl Ronneberg

Createspace, United States, 2011. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 203 x 133 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Dawn is a philosophical narrative exploring multiple meanings of the word as those meanings are set against case studies of life experiences together with philosophical views, the latter ranging from Aristotle and Montaigne through Kierkegaard, Kant, Nicholas Berdyaev, Gabriel Marcel, James Conant, and John McDowell. While the dawning of a new day begins the odyssey and is never completely absent, the dawn as a metaphor for upbringing and its effects over time becomes even more central as that tale progresses toward Aristotle's and John McDowell's integration of upbringing in their philosophical writings. In this way Dawn explicates the notion of how new forms of ethical thought enter human consciousness. Ending with McDowell's idea of second nature, brief stops along the way integrate individual writings from Hugh of Saint Victor, Martin Luther, the Ottawa medicine society of Midewiwin, Charles Darwin, Joseph Conrad, A. J. Grout, Milan Kundera, Hegel, Martin Seligman, and Jonathan Lear. The entire narrative focuses on a lifetime of excursions into practical wisdom using both fictional and real experiences as a background. In...
