They were a family of Anglophiles. (Roy 1996: 52) In establishing the two-egg twins Rahel and Esthappen (Estha) as main characters in her 1996 masterpiece The God of Small Things , Arundhati Roy has set up postcolonial prototypes in the area of conflict between British and Indian identity and culture. The body of the story focuses on the childhood of the twins, playing in the late 1960s; they are born to an upper middle class family in Kerala, South-Western India, and grow up fatherless. Their family to a large extent cultivates a British attitude mainly due to grandfather Pappachi alias John Ipe, an Entomologist and former government official under the British colonial administration, his sister Baby Kochamma, and his...
